

Communists Live in a World without Light

Michael the Great

About the time the winter camellias adorning the winter along with the plum blossoms finally give way to spring, the fragrant olive begins to bud and a flurry of peach blossoms let us know that the cherry blossom season is just around the corner. The warm weather breathes fresh life into the cycle of nature. Spring is the season of growing hope for man and animals alike.

Even in this season of hope, however, spring does not come to those "prisoners of conscience" incarcerated in concentration camps in socialist countries like the Soviet Union, North Korea, Vietnam and Cambodia. For these people time just drags on like an endless extension of bitterly cold winter. Finland and Poland are under similar circumstances, and even China can be considered as being the same. Why is it that the people in these countries prefer drab and ugly things to beautiful things, and rather than listening to righteous individuals, they condone the false statements and evil undertakings of their government. This is probably because those people who grew up in an environment devoid of beauty or righteousness are only used to ugly things and ideologies steeped in lies, and they are thus never able to develop an instinct to seek things of higher value. They create a dark and dreary world for themselves which can be called a hell on earth for mankind.

Those who have received a communist education only learn how to dispose of their conscience and they never learn that "conscience" is the natural process of life even in nature where all life seeks to be in the light of the sun. They do not know that "freedom" means to be able to grow one's branches in all directions in search of light, and to be able to sink deep roots to seek water for nourishment, and that this is the freedom where one is able to "live and let live." They are a people who inhabit a world without light who are only given the "freedom to exterminate one another." They are pitiable residents like the trees in a deep dark jungle which have grown distorted. This is the world of Hades controlled by Satan.

The followers of the True Law and you readers who enjoy staying in touch with the True Law must never go under the illusion that the hell or dark jungle of the communists is worth trading for your own beautiful nature and the Kingdom of Heaven which abounds in "freedom" and overflows with light (these features are the same whether they are experienced in your life, or in your heart only). The society in socialist countries is literally a hell where the persecuted masses constantly go around in fear of being punished and are only concerned about their own wellbeing and ways of avoiding punishment. You shall forfeit all that you have which is good if you believe the false words or illusions of the communists and scientists who are from the dark forest controlled by Satan. These are ideas which are conveyed through the evil messengers among our intelligensia. Socialists are never your true friend. They criticize the harmony and order in this free society as being "authoritarian," and actually believe that the righteous cause is to destroy this society. Their hatred and anger is no different than that of communists, and these negative emotions have no connection whatsoever with the "light of Heaven," and instead they issue from "darkness," or the will of Satan.

You must tell your friends and acquaintances over and over about these things; that the real situation in socialist countries renders all their idealistic words meaningless, and turns them into a stack of lies. Also you must tell your friends more than half of the religious world has fallen prey to the scheme of communists and socialists and has lost sight of Heaven and God.
