

CHAPTER 2

Messages in “Kibo-to-Ai-to Hikari (Hope, Love and Light)” Magazine

Hope and Love and Light

Gabriel

The thing which kept the righteous people in history going while dwelling in the world of darkness where they were subjected to hostility and persecution was love for man and God accompanied by courage. The strong hope of these souls who did not give in no matter what harm befell them, served to increase the virtue of these righteous people, and light was sent from Heaven to brighten their faces and to light the path for those who stood alone in the darkness. Hope, love and light—these three words essentially are the same in meaning, and for those who live in this age of destruction, these are the beacons which are visible whenever their eyes are closed. In these uneventful and yet wicked times, the meaning of these three words are not understood clearly and thus it is difficult to distinguish their meaning and to judge their veracity. Hope gives courage in the face of despair, love gives strength to endure and light shows one the way.

What do you think remains forever unchanged through all ages no matter how man may be corrupted? This is hope which has faith that tomorrow will be better, love which thinks of others before oneself, and the light of Heaven which shines on those who are righteous. If you truly seek hope, love and light from God, you must walk in the path of the righteous and work to convey the message of Heaven which has yet to be heard by many people.

(Nov. 29, 1980, Dictated to Noriko Tsuchida through her clairsaudience.)