

The Last Judgement

Jesus Christ

I am Jesus Christ who taught the True Law two thousand years ago. You men and women on earth, are you aware that the world is just now in the decadent age nearing its end? Those of you hearing this message, are you aware that this society which regards science as being almighty is the most insolent and most unrighteous? Are you aware that men and women who take pride in their own glory and achievements are going down the path of decline and destruction?

The brotherly love, forgiveness and atonement which I taught two thousand years ago has not yet been realized, and neither has the utopian world I suggested been established. Even among the Christians who love and trust me, there are very few who want to work on building a utopia on earth. In not only Christianity, but also in Buddhism and other religions, the construction of an utopia, or otherwise an ideal society, or the land of Buddha on earth, has not been achieved.

Heaven has edified man for many thousands of years to change their hearts, save the world and to build a Kingdom of God on earth. Still, all these things have not been done to this day. Heaven has finally realized that no matter how we teach man in a loving manner, and speak to him with vibrations full of compassion, it no longer echoes within the hearts of people. One of the decisive factors in reaching this realization was that a mortal named Shinji Takahashi whom Buddha himself joinded in spiritual union, attempted to accomplish these things and was unable to bring this about. At this juncture, the inability to create an utopia is no longer the fault of Satan, or because the planning of Heaven was too optimistic. It is simply because people are lacking in wisdom.

This is why I want all of you to realize that now is the time of the Last Judgement. Heaven does not always warmly watch over mankind and protect him from harm. Heaven also has a strict side. If you do nothing but spoil your children, how can your children become respectable adults? There is no way that they can. In raising a child at times sternness is called for and at times there is a need to whip them back into line. Heaven has now realized this, and decided to go ahead with the Last Judgement.

We do not want people on earth to misunderstand that we have abandoned everybody on earth just because of this admonition. Rather, by cutting away the evil souls with the Last Judgement, Heaven is further strengthening its bond with those on earth and is lending a hand in the creation of a new age. Heaven not only needs to save humans, but all things living and not living, as well as all things that obey the order of the universe.

For this reason, we must punish mankind which mistakenly believes that he alone is right, and that because he has the intelligence he can become the ruler and superintendent of truth not to mention space. Human beings are only kept alive by nature together with all its plants and animals and all other matter on earth, organic and inorganic. People on earth, you must reach this realization quickly.

There are times when destruction and war are in order. There is such a thing as destruction for a righteous cause, and wars for the sake of truth. In times to come, there may be a preponderance of war and destruction where warmth and compassion from Heaven will not be as apparent as before. This, and this only, is the sole way that earth can be saved. Nevertheless, the execution of the Last Judgement and the occurrence of wars and destruction does not mean earth will be destroyed totally and the authority of Heaven will decline. As reported again and again, this itself will serve to put the earth back on the track of life and bring about the further advancement of mankind and bring peace in the Celestial Realm as well.

When the age of war and destruction comes to an end an utopia will be created, and in this utopia you will come to clearly realize the Eight-fold Noble Paths⁷ and the Middle Way, and you will understand how the concepts of love and forgiveness need to be seen in the correct light. This is why now I want you to practice the True Law which is strict.

Love does not mean to forgive anything and everything. Being strict with people where necessary is really the True Law, and you must realize that avoiding conflict is not the way to the True Law.

Also, just because people talk of the True Law and the Eight-fold Noble Paths, it does not mean they are able to help you. A person may understand the True Law and show you the way to understand the Eight-fold Noble Paths, but they are in no way able to speed up the time it takes for your realization. The only way to quicken your realization is to make personal efforts, and only your personal efforts will bring your happiness. It has already been proven that the True Law is put into practice individually and there is no need for anything like a Messiah. Also, the purpose of repenting is not for gaining eternal life, but for obeying the law, or the order of the universe, which allows everything to exist. So one must therefore reflect on whether he is correctly following this law, and correct his ways. This point must be understood thoroughly.

When I was teaching two thousand years ago, I warned that you must obey the will of God to gain eternal life, but this was because people were lacking in common sense back then, and their knowledge and way of receiving my teachings was different from today. Following the laws of the universe is the true way in which to lead a useful life, and foster life in every other being, as well as for attaining peace and eternal happiness. This must be understood thoroughly.

To be overly kind and unconditionally forgiving is not in line with the True Law. The battles that must be fought have to be faced up to, and the sword of righteousness must be drawn. You must reflect deeply on this point.
